

Granuloma annulare mimicking cutaneous sarcoidosis.

Mariem Daldoul¹, Mouna Korbi², Hayet Akkari¹, Badreddine Sriha³, Hichem Belhadjali¹, and Jameleddine Zili¹

¹Fattouma Bourguiba University Hospital of Monastir

²Fattouma Bourguiba University Hospital, University of Medicine, University of Monastir

³Farhat Hached University Hospital of Sousse

February 18, 2022

Abstract

Granuloma annulare (GA) is a benign skin granulomatous, with, usually, unknown cause. Few challenging cases of GA have been reported in the literature mimicking sarcoidosis. We describe a rare clinical presentation of GA mimicking cutaneous sarcoidosis.

Hosted file

Main document..doc available at <https://authorea.com/users/461262/articles/556984-granuloma-annulare-mimicking-cutaneous-sarcoidosis>

